

New Top School Post OK'd

A third assistant superintendent was authorized for the Torrance Unified School District Tuesday, with the newly-created post offered to a veteran California and Oregon educator.

After consideration, the Torrance School Board offered the post as assistant superintendent in charge of special services, and research, to Dr. Louis Kaplan, currently director of education, aviation safety division of the University of Southern California. He indicated he was "very interested" in the post and would give an answer shortly.

The 44-year-old Kaplan formerly was director of teacher education, head of the department of education and psychology, director of training schools, at the Oregon College of Education.

He was information and education officer in the Army and Air Force, and a teacher in Detroit, Michigan public schools. He also is a registered pharmacist.

A graduate of Wayne State University, Detroit, he holds a Master's from Columbia University and a doctorate from U.S.C. He also has taken short courses at the University of Wisconsin and Oxford University, England.

He is the author of three books dealing with education and related subjects, as well as many magazine articles.

He has taught a number of college courses in both Oregon and California and has made radio and TV presentations.
